

Linda Kefgen, star of "Peter Pan"

"Peter Pan" To Be Presented Feb. 10 - 13

"Over bed
Over chair
Over the air -
I'm flying!"

Shouts Linda Kefgen who portrays Peter Pan in the new musical to be presented by the Thespian society.

Peter Pan, the little boy who never wants to grow up finds companionship with Wendy, (Vicki Vorce), Little John (Doug Kerr), and Michael, (Kim Vorce). The children encounter exciting adventures in Never Neverland with the Lost boys and the Indians.

Peter's pirate rival Captain Hooke portrayed by Bruce Nyland adds savor to the musical drama.

The production is rarely presented by high school students. The royalty rates are high and stage production is difficult. Wire mechanism will allow the main characters to actually fly across stage in their travels to the land of make-believe.

John Washburn Scores High In Math Test

"I'm very proud of John," stated Mr. Rule after receiving the results of Part I of the Eighth Annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition Test. This test ranked John Washburn, a senior, in the top 2% of all Michigan math students.

The Mathematics Competition Test is sponsored by the Michigan Section of the Mathematics Assistance of America--Michigan Colleges, Universities, Professional Organizations, and Industries. Part I is given once a year to all high school students enrolled in math, and the top 4% are allowed to take Part II. This year 21,755 students took Part I and only 863 were permitted to take Part II. Mr. Rule is still awaiting the results of John's Part II.

The Question Of Morality

by Vicki Gallardo

Lately, morality has become the most widely discussed problem facing our nation. It was an issue in the recent presidential campaigns, and one can hardly pick up a magazine without reading references to the declining morality of the United States. Today's teenagers are especially vulnerable to the ridicule imposed by society. The immorality of adults passed without too much reaction, but the teenager is the cause of up-raised eyebrows and frowns when he strays from the straight and narrow path of expected behavior. Our parents have long established their own moral code, but we teens must decide for ourselves which direction to take, and that direction is the one which will shape our adult lives.

The teen years are the most trying of a person's life. We are growing up in a society so rapidly changing that it is a small wonder that we are having difficulty establishing what is wrong and what is right. Some girls feel at a disadvantage in our society where boys are expected to live up to certain moral standards, while girls must abide by still another, entirely different standard.

When morality becomes such a problem as it is today, something must be done about it. We must set our own standards---no-one can do it for us. However, many of us are followers instead of leaders. Some feel they must conform to survive---they are afraid of ridicule and rejection. There are only two choices. We can either take the bumpy, hard-to-travel path to a new moral code, or the smooth, well-worn one to possible destruction. The choice is ours alone. Which one will it be?

Just An Editorial

Grand Blanc High School----now that is a school to be proud of. We have a beautiful new building and excellent educational facilities. It is a shame to let this be overshadowed by the poor sportsmanship some of our student body displayed at the basketball game Friday, Jan. 8.

There was a time when we won the Sportsmanship Award several years in a row. Just because we haven't had it the last few years doesn't make sportsmanship old fashioned. With a little effort we can still win it back.

The student who yells smart remarks at the ref is someone to be looked down on, not imitated. With a few less BOOS our trophy case could hold the Sportsmanship Trophy every year.

Academics Vs. Spring Fever

Spring fever has set in and filled many students' minds with romantic ideas. Other thoughts should be crowding their minds such as their academic studies.

One may ask, "why?" It may seem like, "the same old thing," but it is important. One's entire future depends upon his years in school.

At the present time it is difficult to acquire a job of any kind. Most factories even require a high school diploma. Soon, it will be almost impossible to dig ditches without a diploma.

Despite these facts, the number of dropouts rates continue to heighten. It is estimated that out of all students who were in the fifth grade in 1954, only 64% graduated. A decade earlier "the proportion had been 50.5%."

It must also be remembered that one's records in school will be used throughout life. As they can not be altered, it would be a wise recommendation to make them very good.

These are just a few of the reasons why students should study. Education and school records are important and only one person can determine his record.

homework assignment, every US History class member was to rewrite the Preamble in his own words. The best revision was chosen by a student committee. Features from the previously selected papers were combined by an inter-class committee to form the final draft.

The purpose of the project was to stimulate interest and understanding of the Declaration of Independence, and to increase awareness in a fundamental cornerstone of Democracy. To encourage adults to refer to the original document and improve their knowledge of Americans basic rights. Lastly to give students a more clearly defined idea concerning the working principals of the Declaration, and to observe public reactions in regard to its concepts.

Student volunteers circulated the petition during the week of December 17-23 at the Grand Blanc and South Flint Plaza. They would approach shoppers and ask them to read and sign the petition.

Approximately 1/5 of the 300 persons interviewed signed. Those who would not comply gave a variety of reasons for their refusal. A majority did not have time due to Christmas shopping. Some who read it did not agree with the wording and the implied meaning of "equal rights before the law to persons of all races, colors, and creeds." Concern was registered over the section on housing and equality. Some one wondered if the circulators were agents of the NAACP. Several did not recognize what it was. One man retorted, "What is this, Candid Camera?"

Locally the project has become a controversial issue among the community. A write-up appeared in the Flint Journal and radio station WJLB covered the story.

Chosen by the staff as best looking in their respective classes are; Ferta Pechtel and Terry Maxey, seniors, and Lyn Akers and Jim Johnson, juniors.

Band Members Attend Clinic

Five members of the high school band were accepted at a band clinic in Pigeon Michigan December 12. Janet Ellinger, Ray Kern, Bill Hall, and Gloria Fleshenski were the four to attend.

The band consisted of members of high school bands throughout this district. They practiced during the day, and gave a concert that night.

Mr. Arthur Hill, director of Music at Grand Valley College, conducted the band.

Ann Harvey was the fifth member accepted, but was unable to attend.

S.C. Constitution Approved

The eight-page document, which represents two months work by Council members, set forth the basic principles of the school and is the first such document for the school.

The student body approved the new constitution Friday, January 8, 1965. Student Council representatives assisted the homerooms in registering voters.

Tom Johnson Receives 4-H Award

Junior, Tom Johnson spent the first week of December in New Orleans as a result of winning a vegetable judging contest for 4-H Club.

Tom, along with many others, competed first, in the county vegetable judging contest here at Grand Blanc then went on to the state level to compete with 150 others in judging vegetable. The state contest was held at Michigan State University where Tom and his opponents had to classify certain plates of vegetables. Some of the various plates that Tom had to identify were: 100 specimens of potatoes, 20 samples of disease vegetable, identifying the disease, 50 different kinds and varieties of vegetables, 25 vegetable seeds and the defects in potatoes. Tom also took part in flower judging, land judging, and entomology. After placing as one of the top five in the state Tom then went to New Orleans to partake in the national contest. The top five winners from Michigan including Tom were escorted to New Orleans in a Michigan State University bus.

The vegetable judging contest is held every year sponsored by the National Junior Vegetable Growers.

20 All-A Students Named

Statistics reveal that Grand Blanc has topped three schools in the percentage of all-A students to the number of students in each class.

Last marking period .62% of the senior class had all-A's compared to .86% of Bendle's senior class, .60% of Ainsworth's and .0% of Kearsley's. Our junior class brought in 1.38%, Bendle .76% Ainsworth, 0%, and Kearsley 0%. Tenth grade was .80%, Bendle .60%, Ainsworth .22% and Kearsley 1.23%. Of the freshmen class, 2.32% had all-A's, however Bendle, Ainsworth, and Kearsley High schools have no freshmen class.

Any number of conclusions may be drawn from these facts. Here are a few alternatives:

1. Grand Blanc students study harder.
2. Grand Blanc marks easier.
3. Grand Blanc students are more intelligent.

No survey has been taken on how well our students are doing as freshmen in college, however hearsay is poor.

Whatever the answer is, we must not let our percentages drop. Congratulations to those students who received all-A's this marking period. They are: 12th grade, Gloria Fleshenski, Pat Wiggins; 11th
